

Prospects Not Too Hopeful For FEPC Bill

Truman Switches His Fight To Senate

WASHINGTON—(P)—Its prospects of success clouded by passage of a voluntary FEPC bill, the administration switched to the senate today in its drive for compulsory fair employment practices legislation.

Backed by President Truman, Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, kept to a schedule which will bring a bitterly-fought anti-job discrimination measure up in the senate next month.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that he has made it clear he wants a bill with enforcement clauses.

When a reporter asked if such a measure could be made effective without interfering with an employer's right to hire whom he pleases, Mr. Truman said he'd always thought so.

Because of the expected Southern Democratic filibuster, the exact senate date for action on a bill with enforcement teeth is in doubt.

Even its approval by the senate might mean only a disagreement between the two houses. That would kill the legislation in this session of congress. Civil rights advocates then would have to start all over again in the next congress.

The house bill, approved by a 210 to 177 vote, would set up a fair employment practices commission to try to persuade employers not to discriminate in hiring against anybody because of race, creed, disability or sex. Civil rights advocates didn't like it at all.

The administration bill to be called up in the senate would give the FEPC power to enforce its decisions, providing criminal penalties for violations. The latter measure has the backing of supporters of President Truman's civil rights program.

Michigan Lacks Prison Housing

Gymnasium At Ionia Used As Dormitory

LANSING—(P)—The population of Michigan prisons edged to a new high today and corrections commissioner Ernest C. Brooks resorted to last-fitch measures to provide space for new prisoners.

He ordered the opening of the second and last gymnasium at Ionia State Reformatory to serve as a dormitory.

The prison population stood at a total of 8,752, the highest on record. Michigan's three prisons can house exactly 6,642 in cells. This figure has long since been passed.

Partly to provide more space and partly to provide advanced corrections facilities, the overflow has been housed as trustees outside the walls or in the Detroit House of Correction.

These facilities, however, are now jammed. Of the 6,008 under jurisdiction of the Southern Michigan prison, only 4,827 can be housed in cells. This is the first time the Southern Michigan prison population has gone over 6,000. Those who are not in cells are in prison conservation camps, farms and other outside assignments.

Ionia State Reformatory now has a population of 1,246, but only 1,133 are in cells. The rest are in the first gymnasium which was converted into a dormitory.

At Marquette, Branch prison, 872 inmates are listed. Of these, 682 jam all available cell space. The rest are at farms, the honor camp, and conservation prison camps.

Republicans Prepare To Block Governor's Corporation Tax Plan

LANSING—(P)—Key Republicans in the legislature threw up a new road block today against Governor Williams' proposal for a corporation profits tax.

They said "this is not the time for new taxes."

The statement was made by the chairman of the House and Senate taxation committees, which have been meeting jointly as a special committee to investigate tax problems. They are Sen. George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale) and Rep. Louis P. Anderson (R-Northport).

Although contending that the Democratic administration has erred widely in estimating the state's prospective deficit, the two conceded there may be a deficit approaching in the state treasury.

But that makes no difference, they said.

"We think we should wait and see what the appropriation bills amount to" in the March 15 special legislative session, said Higgins.

Cancer Patient Killing Denied

Woman Already Dead Counsel Claims

By HENRY L. SUPPLE

MANCHESTER, N. H.—(P)—Was Dr. Hermann N. Sander's incurable cancer patient dead before he allegedly injected air into her veins?

That was the big question today as the murder trial of the 41-year-old physician moved into its fifth day.

Sander's chief counsel said last night after the first day of testimony that he had a medical statement from Dr. Albert Snay saying "The patient already had expired" before the alleged injections.

Dr. Snay is a staff member of the hospital where the woman died.

Louis E. Wyman, white-haired, 71-year-old defense attorney, made his remarks in an impromptu press conference after court adjourned.

Earlier, Attorney General William L. Phinney, state prosecutor, introduced testimony that Dr. Sander admitted killing Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, last December in a "weak moment," that he yielded to pleas of her husband to "eliminate" her if necessary to end her suffering.

Wyman's post-court statement said Snay examined Mrs. Borroto at a nurse's request as she lay in Hillsboro county hospital.

Phinney himself said in an after-court question period he had talked to Dr. Snay and received no intimation Mrs. Borroto was dead at the time he saw her.

The rugged, ex-FBI prosecutor also said he had talked with Mr. Borroto and learned nothing to indicate there had been any agreement concerning the ending of Mrs. Borroto's suffering.

Phinney told the 13-man jury Dr. Sander agreed Mrs. Borroto died of air injections; that he did know it was breaking the law, but that his conscience was clear and he had not done anything wrong.

Swiss Pleads Guilty To Espionage Charge

BERN, Switzerland—(P)—A Swiss army mechanic, said to have paid nearly $10,000 earned from spying into a New York bank before the war, pleaded guilty yesterday to espionage for the United States, Britain and France.

Willy Gerber, 47, was brought before a Swiss military court. He faces a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

He was said to have systematically betrayed Switzerland's military secrets, stole secret plans and documents from the Swiss army and engaged in economic and political espionage.

Maj. Bidwell Moore, assistant U. S. military attaché in Bern who was recalled last October, was said at that time by the Swiss federal council (cabinet) to have been in contact with Gerber.

Young Will Rogers Can't Portray Dad

NEW YORK—(P)—Will Rogers, Jr., decided he couldn't play the part of his famous father in a CBS radio drama last night.

Rogers rehearsed for two days to appear in the title role of "The Autobiography of Will Rogers." But before the performance, he stepped out.

"Somebody else may possibly play the role," he said. "But it probably never will be me. I know that I never could portray Dad in the movies, but I thought it might work on radio. It didn't."

The part was taken by radio actor Ted De Corsia.

gins, "rather than be governed by the governor's recommendations. There is nothing in the constitution that says we can't incur a deficit."

"We should wait and see what the legislature does with the appropriations bills," Higgins explained. "We will have enough money to carry us until next January when the legislature will return in special session. Then we can take corrective measures, if we have to."

Higgins contended that Williams and his advisers had made a $67,000,000 error in computing the deficit in the past two fiscal years.

Therefore, he said, the Republican lawmakers do not take seriously Williams' implication that a $13,000,000 to $15,000,000 deficit will be incurred in the present fiscal year and a $90,000,000 deficit next year.

The two chairmen said their "no new tax" decision was not subject to ratification by the Republican policy committee which meets Monday.

Higgins said that if more money is needed when the legislature meets next January about $30,000,000 can be picked up by removing the sales tax exemption on equipment bought by industry for "industrial processing."

This, he said, could be accomplished by making such purchases subject to the use tax, now reserved for purchases outside of the state. This, he said, would evade the necessity for returning more than 75 per cent of the added revenue to local governments under the sales tax diversion.

Both chairmen said they would not favor removing the sales tax exemption on articles purchased by farmers for "agricultural processing." The sum involved is too small, they said.

President May Try To Save Fair Deal With Stumping Tour

By NEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman may try to rescue his "fair deal" program by a pre-adjournment stumping tour aimed at bringing voter pressure on Congress.

The president himself gave impetus to such speculation by disclosing that he is considering a Spring trip to the northwest complete with "whistle stops" going and coming back.

The trip under consideration would have for its avowed purpose participation in the dedication of the Grand Coulee dam in Washington state.

The president told his news conference yesterday that he had been invited and was considering making the trip. If he went, he said, there probably would be some whistle stops going and coming.

In view of his previously announced decision to stay out of Democratic primaries except in his own state of Missouri, the president likely would concentrate on opponents of his legislative program, especially Republicans, but leave enough implications to whip some Democratic recalcitrants in line.

Republicans generally viewed the Spring tour as a part of a Truman campaign to get his sort of Democrat elected to Congress. Presidents Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt both made some efforts in that direction, and Senator Brewster (R-Me) said he

Court Battle Threatened In GOP Spy Hunt

Secret Files Wanted For Senate Inquiry

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON—(P)—Republicans today threatened a court fight to get secret loyalty files into the hands of a senate committee ordered to hunt down any Communists in the State department.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb) talked of prosecuting Secretary of State Acheson for contempt, if necessary.

The GOP lawmakers seemed unlikely to get Democratic help, particularly if Senator Tydings (D-Md) heads the inquiry group.

President Truman made clear at yesterday's White House news conference that the department's loyalty files won't be given to the Senate foreign relations committee.

The president notified government departments last year that they are not to release confidential files on government employees. He said yesterday he is standing by that decision.

That cast some doubt on whether Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) will furnish the committee with a full list of the 61 persons he said are Communists who either had been or are now working for the department.

McCarthy said he doesn't know whether it will be worthwhile to go ahead with the investigation if the files remain locked up.

The Wisconsin senator called the president's decision "an obvious attempt to cover up Communists in the state department," adding: "The administration is afraid to face the facts. I don't think the senate will take this as final."

The senate voted previously to clothe the foreign relations group with authority to subpoena the loyalty files.

Say Cemetery Bill May Fail

Congressmen Are Not Optimistic

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON—(P)—Members of the House Public Lands committee say they consider the chances of getting a bill passed this year to establish national cemeteries in Ohio and Michigan are "not good."

Bills are pending in the committee to establish such cemeteries for war veterans in a dozen states, with the main support seeming to center on those proposed for Michigan and Ohio.

"The chances that any national cemetery bill can be passed at this session of congress are not good," a committee spokesman said. "We haven't even scheduled hearings on any of them, and I don't know whether any will be held under the circumstances. A very strong lobby is fighting the bills."

Rep. Brehm (R-Ohio), who introduced the Ohio national cemetery bill, made public a letter from the American Cemetery Association expressing opposition. He declined to comment on it.

The letter, over the signature of William C. Henning of Columbus, Ohio, the association's executive secretary, proposed that Brehm abandon his national cemetery bill and sponsor, instead, a plan to "provide a federal allowance to each veteran for burial in the cemetery of his own choice."

French Count Dies At Cheboygan

CHEBOYGAN, Mich.—(P)—Final rites will be held here Saturday for Count Jean De Chappedelaine, 56, a French representative to the United Nations on the international civil aviation authority.

De Chappedelaine died Thursday after a long illness at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. A. E. Sangster.

The official was a veteran of both world wars and was a member of the purchasing commission in the United States for the French air ministry and for The Netherlands purchasing commission.

Hospital Project Site To Be Sold

GRAND RAPIDS—(P)—A three-man panel will try to decide Monday on a fair price for 17 acres of land the government acquired here by condemnation but doesn't need any more.

A veterans hospital was to have been built on the property, but the project recently was cancelled. The government took title after court action in 1947 but hasn't yet paid Charles Orlikowski, the former owner.

Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr will appoint three commissioners to decide how much the government owes.

TOO MANY ROBBERIES

POINT HURON—(P)—Local police are working overtime to end an outbreak of small robberies. Since Feb. 6, 19 breaks into homes and stores have been reported, and in most cases small amounts of money, watches and cigarettes have been taken. Thursday a burglar removed a window glass to get into a shoe store and then entered an adjoining barber shop by taking a door off its hinges. The loot was $6.50.

Coal Famine Grows As Idle Miners Face New Court Penalties

WASHINGTON—(P)—Judge Richmond B. Keech refused today to drop contempt charges against the striking coal miners union and ordered a trial on Monday.

Keech told union attorneys they could have a jury trial if they desired.

Welly K. Hopkins, chief UMW attorney, said he would consider over the weekend whether to ask for a jury trial.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison asked that the trial start tomorrow. He noted that since the original court back to work order, issued Feb. 11 "there has been no increase in production of the bituminous mines of this country."

Urging the need for speed in the case, Morison said: "At least 20 states have adopted emergency measures to take care of the coal supply."

"Virtually all of the nation's cities have the same problem. If this contempt is established in appropriate trial then it is the view of the government that the full power and majesty of this court" be used to get the miners back on the job.

Hopkins objected to having the trial start tomorrow.

Judge Keech then set it for Monday.

On the basis of past performance, a guilty verdict might mean a whopping assessment against the UMW treasury—estimated to contain between $13,000,000 and $20,000,000. The fine levied in 1945 totaled $710,000; in 1948 it was double that amount.

Lewis had hoped to halt the contempt proceedings by coming up with a last-minute agreement in his court-ordered negotiations with the major operator representatives here.

Even without inducements, the miners clearly intended to stay out of the pits. Meanwhile the nation hungered for coal.

Figures from the Bureau of mines indicated that the coal dispute has cost close to 200,000,000 tons of fuel since mid-June. That's about four months' normal production.

In Missouri, the St. Louis hospital council said it had sent an urgent request for coal to Lewis. It quoted him as replying:

"Suggest you urge coal companies heretofore supplying you with coal to sign contract with United Mine Workers of America, which will permit immediate resumption of production."

"It is going to be quite a battle," Bricker told a reporter, "and I have a feeling we may win it."

Faced with strong opposition, Bricker of the original program compromised and got a scaled-down version of the administration's cooperative housing plan through the banking committee late yesterday. The vote was 9 to 4, but some members reserved the right to offer amendments during the Senate debate, expected next month.

The original cooperative program called for $2,000,000,000 in government-guaranteed loans to cooperatives made up of families whose income ranges generally from $2,400 to $4,700 a year.

The committee voted to cut the loan figure to $1,000,000,000 and to change the financing plan to bring it in line with a recommendation by the federal reserve board.

The group also agreed to deep slashes in other housing programs the bill covers.

Telephone Sister, Dies Hour Later

BENTON HARBOR, Mich.—(P)—Mrs. Al J. Hoffman answered a long distance call and heard the man at the other end say: "Goodbye Reva, I'm going."

That was yesterday. Today she left for Tulsa, Okla., the origin of the call, to attend the funeral of her brother, Frank V. Wakefield, 61, who died 50 minutes after his telephone "goodbye."

Wakefield had been bedridden with cancer since last September. A native of Benton Harbor, he operated a rent-a-car and taxi service in Tulsa.

Russia Gives Arms To Chinese Reds

TAIPEI, Formosa—(P)—Premier Yen Hsi-Shan's office said today he had received trustworthy reports that Russia already has supplied Red China with warplanes for use against Chinese Nationalists.

Immediately, preparations were started here in the Nationalist capital to minimize the effects of possible Communist air raids. As many factories, schools and hospitals as possible were ordered moved into rural areas. Factories that cannot be moved will be camouflaged.

U. S. Naval Aide Dies In Austria

VIENNA, Austria—(P)—A U. S. naval aide to the American embassy here died in a railroad tunnel south of Salzburg yesterday. Semi-official sources said today there is "no hint of foul play."

U. S. army investigators tentatively identified the man as Capt. Eugene Karpe, who was a close friend of Robert A. Vogeler, the American businessman sentenced to prison in Hungary Tuesday on charges of being an American spy.

Trouble Faced By Housing Bill

Plan Cut In Half By Banking Committee

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON—(P)—Slashed in half by the Senate Banking committee, President Truman's middle-income cooperative housing program appeared today to be headed for still more trouble.

Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) said he and other foes of the bill intend to carry their fight for even more drastic revision to the Senate floor.

"It is going to be quite a battle," Bricker told a reporter, "and I have a feeling we may win it."

Faced with strong opposition, Bricker of the original program compromised and got a scaled-down version of the administration's cooperative housing plan through the banking committee late yesterday. Legation In Ireland Raised To Embassy

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Truman today raised the American legation in Ireland to the status of an embassy and nominated George A. Garrett, the present minister, to be ambassador.

The president signed the papers when Garrett called at his office to discuss American-Irish affairs. Several weeks ago the American and Irish governments reached an agreement to raise their legations to embassies.

Garrett's nomination to the higher rank must be approved by the senate.

Tories Trim Down Margin Of Socialists

Attlee May Not Get Working Majority

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON—(P)—Prime Minister Attlee's labor party held only a narrow lead tonight in its bid to rule Britain for five more years, and faced the possibility of going into the new House of Commons with an unworkable majority.

Late conservative victories threw up stumbling blocks on the road to Socialism. The Labor party, which had held an overnight lead of 61 seats, saw its advantage shrink as returns were tabulated from the 625 districts electing members to the House of Commons. Several times the count between the Laborites and their combined opposition was a stand-off. Then the Laborites began building up a lead again, and gained 17 seats in two hours.

Conservatives Lose Hope

Shortly after 6 p. m. (1 p. m. Eastern Standard Time) the Laborites held a lead of 20 seats over its combined opposition—the Conservatives and the Liberals. At that time with 95 per cent of the vote counted, Labor held 308 seats, the Conservatives and Allied Candidates 281 and the Liberals seven.

Labor needed a majority of at least 30 seats to function effectively, its leaders said.

Conservative party experts said at 6 p. m. that prospects of their winning a clear-cut victory looked "quite hopeless." But one analyst declared:

"Whichever government wins it will not stay in power long."

This posed the possibility of new elections if the Labor party emerged with a final victory but met defeat in the House of Commons on a vote to confidence.

Records Broken

Winston Churchill, who spearheaded the Conservatives along the comeback trail after their landslide defeat in 1945, said:

"It is obvious parliament is going to be in a very unstable condition."

The total vote in the elections, held yesterday, broke all records. In the first 550 districts 25,216,425 votes were counted, compared with the previous high for all districts of 25,018,393 in 1945. Eighty-five per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls in the 550 districts. The national average in

Ice Formations Light On Lakes

Early Navigation Opening Seen

Despite cold weather since mid-January, ice conditions on Green Bay and the Great Lakes are lighter than normal and indicate the possibility that 1950 navigation may be opened earlier than usual, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau office report from Detroit.

In its mid-February report, however, the Weather Bureau cautions that "although present conditions and indications do favor an early opening, it is well to call attention to the fact that a return to even normal temperatures could form considerable ice in presently open waters during the next few weeks."

So far ice formations have been "very light" in Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron, and most of Lake Michigan. The Detroit river has only light floating ice and no ice is visible from the port of Buffalo.

Although Lakes Michigan and Huron have less ice than usual, the Straits of Mackinac ice is heavily windrowed, causing considerable difficulty to the ferries.

The January weather report of the Weather Bureau office in Escanaba revealed the last half of that month as having 11 days when the temperature was zero or below. Highest temperature in January was 41 and the low was 19 degrees below.

A total of 2.82 inches of precipitation was recorded here during the month of January, which is 1.33 inches above normal. Heaviest snowfall was on Jan. 25, when nearly an inch of snow was recorded.

Lake Superior ice conditions were reported about average, with ice in Munising harbor ranging up to 18 inches. Little ice was reported on the open lake, except in Whitefish Bay where heavy floes were reported.

Tries To Trim Hair With Razor Blade Child Badly Cut

GRAND MARAIS—Greg Lundquist, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lundquist, suffered a severe cut on his head over the ear which severed an artery, when he and his two-year-old cousin, Scott Thorington, attempted to cut their hair with a razor blade.

He was rushed to Newberry hospital after receiving first aid from his mother and Homer Lyons, a neighbor who checked the flow of blood by pressure on the jugular vein. Seven stitches were necessary to close the wound.

The children, who were playing together, found the razor blade in a box containing household repair equipment which had been placed high on a closet shelf. The accident was discovered by Greg's mother who investigated when she became alarmed because the children were so quiet.

Scott had three small nicks on his head but the cuts were superficial.

Greg is recovering although he is still weak from loss of blood.

Brother Of Lewis Found Shot Dead At Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P)—Thomas A. Lewis, 67, brother of John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was found shot to death today in his home here.

Deputy Coroner Catherine Rutherford said he had shot himself because of ill health.

Mrs. Rutherford said Lewis' wife, Leonore, discovered her husband's body in the bathtub on the second floor of the home. A revolver was lying near the body.

The deputy coroner said that Lewis, a retired immigration service employee, had been in ill health for some time and suffered a severe heart attack yesterday.

It was the second time in six weeks that death occurred in the Lewis family. Mrs. Ann Louise Lewis, mother of the UMW leader, died here Jan. 12 at the age of 91.

Tories Trim Off Laborites Margin

1945 was 73 per cent. There will be 625 seats in the new House of Commons. There were 640 in the last House, and the Laborites held 381 seats, the Conservatives 202.

Churchill, reelected in his own district by a big margin spoke to his constituency at Woodford. The wartime prime minister said:

"We cannot tell and I am certainly not going to pronounce what is going to happen but it is obvious parliament is going to be in a very unstable condition."

All we can do is to keep our eyes steadily fixed on the main purpose to bring our country back to the forefront of the nations and to make her a home for all our people."

While the two big parties were battling it out and electing nearly all their top leaders, the Liberal party and the Communists took a severe beating. The Liberals had put 400 candidates in the field and the Communists 100.

Prime Minister Attlee, Foreign Minister Bevin, Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison and all other cabinet members, with two or three exceptions, were reelected to parliament.

Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones lost to his Conservative opponent by a slim 81 votes. Solicitor General Frank Soskice also was defeated. So were L. J. Edwards, parliamentary secretary of the board of trade, and David Rees-Williams, undersecretary for colonies.

Among the defeated Conservatives were Randolph Churchill, son of the Tory leader, and John Astor, son of American-born Lady Astor.

Charges Tito Now Allied With Stalin

PARIS (P)—Ex-King Peter of Yugoslavia charged today that Tito has "practically returned to the group of Moscow satellites."

The charge was made in a statement to the semi-official French news agency in a comment on Tito's recognition of the anti-French Ho Chi-Minh government in Indochina.

Peter said he had private information from his homeland that Stalin and Tito are getting together again. Tito's followers, he suggested, may be maneuvering a return to the Cominform.

He insisted that this was contrary to the true interests and desires of the Yugoslav people.

Two Missionaries Released By Czechs

PRAGUE (P)—Two American Mormon missionaries, held by Czech police since Jan. 28 on charges of entering a "prohibited area" were released today and expelled from the country.

The American embassy said the two missionaries, Stanley E. Abbott of Lehi, Utah, and C. Aldon Johnson, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, were released from jail in Olomouc, central Moravia.

They were placed on a train in the company of two plainclothesmen, brought to Prague, taken to the airport and whisked off to Zurich, Switzerland, by plane.

More than 500 U. S. cities are served by scheduled airlines.

Ice Revue Shows Profit Of $126

Gross Receipts Total $4,293

A profit of $126.21 was realized on Escanaba's 12th annual Escanaba ice revue, George Grenholm, recreation director, reported today.

Gross receipts from ticket sales totaled $4,293. Expenses totaled $4,166.77. Attendance totaled 4,917 for the four performances for which 144 complimentary tickets were distributed.

On Thursday night, when the show opened, 1428 persons attended, most of these children and students. Friday night 1,026 attended, on Saturday night 1,238 and on Sunday afternoon 1,225.

Profits from the ice revue, Grenholm stated today, will be used to buy supplies for the skating program here next year.

Expenses were as follows:
Federal tax $ 716.00
Advertising 155.82
(includes tickets, printing)
Properties 399.55
Costuming 1,368.66
Lighting 449.19
Music 622.36
General 475.19
Most tickets for the ice revue were bought in the 50 cents and $1.25 bracket. Next largest in sale was the 75-cent ticket.

Polio Drive At Grand Marais Exceeds Quota

GRAND MARAIS—With the proceeds from the pancake supper and social sponsored by St. Ann's Guild of Holy Rosary church Tuesday evening, the Burt township polio fund went "over the top." This brought the total for the township to over $400, which is the self-set goal of $1 per capita and the fund still is growing.

All organizations in Grand Marais united this year to push the polio drive.

So far benefits have been derived from the birthday ball and social at the high school auditorium January 28, the minstrel and radio show February 14, the pancake supper and a house to house canvas. Events planned for the future are a bake sale Saturday, February 25 sponsored by the 7th and 8th grades and a social Sunday evening at Holy Rosary church hall sponsored by the East and West town card clubs.

Webster Cub Pack Birthday Supper Held Last Night

A successful pot luck supper was held last night at the Webster school, commemorating the birthday of the Boy Scouts One hundred Cubs, parents and friends were present.

After the supper a program was presented by the Cubes. The flags were presented by John Seidl and Richard Liebold as color bearers. Cubes of Den 1 dressed as ladies of the gay 90's played a symphony on violins they had made themselves, with Tommy Johnson conductor. Den 2 presented a short skit of the early life of Abraham Lincoln called "Lincoln's First Fish." Scenery and props were prepared by the boys. Lincoln was portrayed by Neil Dunsmoor, Mrs. Lincoln by Gus Gustafson and the old soldier by Gary Steede. Dens 4, 5 and 6, dressed in full armor, presented a meeting of Knights of the Round Table. David Jensen was the leader, Jack Gannon, Don Hovey and Jim Hamelin were reporting Knights, John Woodard was "Sir Kay" and John Derouin, a new member was knighted.

The ceremony closed with assembly singing of "America" with Carol Woodard, accompanist. Billy Stratton sounded "Taps" as the colors were removed.

Duane Marenger Is Injured In Toboggan Mishap

Duane Marenger, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Marenger, 202 Stephenson avenue, suffered a severe cut, a torn knee cap and other injuries to his right leg yesterday about 5 p. m., when a toboggan on which he was riding hit into a pile of track rails near the Reiss Coal docks.

Marenger was tobogganing with John and Arthur Derouin and James Moreau. He was taken to the office of the Reiss coal company by his companions, who pulled him on the toboggan, and from there was taken to St. Francis hospital by Dan O'Donnell.

Marenger was head one on the toboggan. None of the others was injured.

Churches Urge Peace Program

H-Bomb Arouses Fear Of "World Suicide"

GENEVA, Switzerland (P)—The World Council of Churches appealed today for a gigantic new effort for peace in order to meet the threat of "world suicide" raised by creation of the hydrogen bomb.

The council called upon the nations of the world to renew negotiations to break the present deadlock over international control of atomic energy.

The council represents 155 churches—Anglican, Protestant and Greek Orthodox—in 44 countries. The appeal was issued through its executive committee after three days of secret deliberations at nearby Bossey.

"The hydrogen bomb is the latest and most terrible step in the crescendo of warfare which has changed war from a fight between men and nations to a mass murder of human life," the statement said.

"Man's rebellion against his creator has reached such a point that, unless stayed, it will bring self destruction upon him x x x 'Let each ponder in his conscience, be he statesman or scientist or ordinary citizen, how far his own action or attitude contributes to the danger of world suicide, and what he must do to prevent it, and to bring the nations to understand and serve one another.' The statement said that as 'representatives of Christian churches we appeal for a gigantic new effort for peace. x x x We urge the governments to enter into negotiations once again, and to do everything in their power to bring the present tragic deadlock to an end.'

Ole G. Olson Dies Suddenly At Detroit

GLADSTONE—Ole G. Olson, 78, died suddenly Thursday afternoon in Ferguson hospital, Detroit, of a heart ailment. He had been in failing health the past 10 months.

Olson was born March 12, 1871 in Oslo, Norway and came to the United States in 1903. He had lived in Rapid River since coming to this country. He worked as a cook in lumber camps and on lake carriers.

He leaves two sons, Otto M. and Simon of Detroit, and a brother, John in Oslo. Mrs. Olson died 23 years ago.

The body will be removed to Kelley Funeral Home in Gladstone, where friends may call beginning at noon Sunday. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Monday from Calvary Lutheran church in Rapid River, of which Mr. Olson was a member. He will lie in state at the church for one hour before services Monday. The Rev. Maynard Hansen of Bark River will officiate at the funeral and burial will be made in Rapid River cemetery.

Restaurant Man Pays Fine Here

Harry Tilbert, doing business as Mary's Place, was ordered to pay a fine of $25 and court costs yesterday afternoon when arraigned before Justice Henry E. Ranguette on a charge of selling "light" cream. The court suspended $15 from the fine and Tilbert paid $10 plus costs.

Complaint was made by Mason I. Smith, dairy inspector for the Michigan Department of Agriculture. The specific charge was "unlawfully offering for sale and selling cream adulterated and misbranded, in that it contained

Higgins Talks With Escanaba Officials

Wisconsin Central Airlines will inaugurate daily air service to Escanaba "at the earliest possible date" this spring, Francis Higgins, president of the company, told Escanaba city officials and members of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee at a dinner meeting last night at the House of Ludington.

Higgins declined to set a target date for the inauguration of service here, pointing out that considerable preliminary work must be done. He promised, however, to speed the program. Higgins told the Escanaba officials that Wisconsin Central is very anxious to operate commercial air service in Escanaba because the company believes that this city is the "hub of the Upper Peninsula".

At the start one flight south and another flight north will be operated here, he said, but later it is planned to increase the service to two flights each way daily.

The airline president reviewed the history of the Wisconsin Central Airlines and told about the company's problems in developing its route. He said that the airline is completing its second year of scheduled service today, Feb. 24, and is particularly proud of the fact that it has an outstanding safety record as well as a record of efficient operation.

"The only damage claim that we have had from any passenger was for replacement of a pair of glasses," Higgins said. He added that the airline has flown over 3,000,000 miles and has carried 50,000 passengers.

Higgins conceded that the company's operations in the Upper Peninsula this past winter have not been very satisfactory, due primarily, he said, to extremely unusual weather conditions and the limiting factor of one runway on most of the U. P. airports. He explained that Civil Aeronautics Board regulations are very strict and that the company and pilots are liable for fines and penalties for failure to observe regulations.

Higgins was assured by local aviation enthusiasts that Wisconsin Central will find flying conditions more ideal in Escanaba than in any other city of the peninsula.

City Engineer Loren Jenkins reviewed the progress in the Escanaba airport improvement program. He said that the project to widen the runway and stabilize the shoulders and to add 400 feet to the north end of the runway is pledged early this spring. Funds have already been appropriated for that purpose, City Manager A. V. Aronson told the Wisconsin Central official.

Fred Schmitt, chairman of the aviation committee, told Higgins that every request that Wisconsin Central has made here as a prelude to inauguration of service has been met.

"The government has certified our airport. You are licensed to come in here with scheduled service now. It's up to you to prove your sincerity," Schmitt told Higgins. Schmitt reminded the Wisconsin Central official that his airline had several times previously promised to inaugurate air service to Escanaba and had failed to do so.

Court Dissolves
Milk Injunction

Grand Haven Law
Also Held Invalid

GRAND HAVEN—(P)—Circuit Judge Raymond L. Smith Thursday dissolved an injunction preventing Grocers Co-Operative Dairy of Grand Rapids from selling milk here.

Earlier this week the judge held invalid a restrictive provision of the local milk ordinance which required all milk sold in the community to be pasteurized in plants within five miles of the city limits.

The injunction had been granted last June prior to court test of the ordinance.

The golden-eye duck is called "whistler," because of the peculiar whistling sound of its wings in flight.

O'Brien Reports On Outdoors Show

The Delta County Tourist Council will sponsor publication of a county tourist guide in 1950, it was decided at a meeting of the organization held last night in Gladstone city hall. Clarence Moreau of Escanaba will be editor-manager of the enterprise, and a committee of the Tourist Council will be named to consult with him on the publication.

Walter O'Brien, Tourist Council president, reported to the group on the success of the Delta county booth at the recent Outdoors Show in Detroit. The booth was staffed by Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien.

A total of more than 17,000 pieces of literature, including 10,000 copies of a special issue of the Baies de Noquet and 1,000 copies of the 1949 edition of the Delta County Tourist guide, were distributed.

O'Brien estimated that they talked to more than 2,000 persons during the show, and obtained more than 1,700 registrations, showing a definite interest in this area. The Delta county booth was staffed for two afternoons of the show by Mr. and Mrs. Ole Peterson, members of the Delta County Tourist Council.

At the meeting of the organization in Gladstone last night, a report was heard from John Kallman Jr. on the Tourist Council membership drive now underway; and the members attending the

Flanigan Warehouse
Is Entered

MARQUETTE, Mich.,—Police today were investigating breaking and entering of Flanigan Brothers warehouse, the first burglary case reported here in several weeks.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking of a window in the front office door, but apparently nothing was taken. Unsuccessful attempts were made by the burglar to open a cash register.

The business district was plagued by a dozen or more burglaries late in December and early in January, several of which were solved by apprehension of a parolee from the Boy's Vocational school in Lansing.

Frostbite Victim,
Dies Here Today

George Zubovich, about 78 years old, died at 6:30 a. m. today in St. Francis hospital where he was admitted Feb. 15 suffering from exposure and frostbitten arms and legs.

Zubovich lived alone in a shack on the North Bay shore and his plight came to the attention of authorities when neighbors reported to police that the aged man had frozen his knees and elbows. Police found Zubovich shoveling snow at his dwelling. He told officers he had fallen into the water of the bay a couple days before.

Authorities have been unable to locate any known relatives.

The body is at the Degnan funeral home, where friends may call.

Funeral services will be held there at 2 p. m. Saturday with the Rev. L. R. Lund officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

THE LION'S SHARE

The fellow who can roar the loudest and bite the hardest usually gets what he wants.

That's the way it is in the animal kingdom, and sometimes the system creeps into man's world too!

Most of us have too much religious awareness to believe that such a system is the best one. We would rather live in a world in which kindness and peace and unselfishness were the rule.

Our Churches can help us build such a world. They can turn our religious awareness into spiritual growth.

On Sunday morning, the man in the armchair knows just as well as the man in the pew what is wrong with the world. But the man in the pew will be busy doing something about it!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Young Men Named To Important Jobs

THE appointments of two young men, James G. Ward, Jr., and John H. Fawcett, to positions of general manager of the Escanaba Daily Press and the Delta Hardware, respectively, two of the community's leading business establishments, were announced this week.

These appointments are of more than casual interest to the people of the Escanaba area because the business firms that they head play an extremely important part in the business and economic life of the city.

Both of the two young men are eminently well qualified for the positions of responsibility to which they have been assigned. They bring to their respective establishments the qualities of experience and youthful vigor. Mr. Ward and Mr. Fawcett are veterans of World War II, each having served as an officer in the United States army overseas.

The two executives deserve and undoubtedly they will receive the cooperation and support of the employees of the firms that they now head, as well as the moral support of the community. The decisions that they will make and the work that they will perform in developing progressive leadership for their respective institutions have a common objective—a better community. It is an objective to which all of our citizens subscribe.

Dairymen Need More Advertising

MEMBERS of the American Dairy association, meeting in Madison this week, were given some extremely valuable advice by agricultural experts in an analysis of the dairy market situation. The dairymen were told that an aggressive advertising program is the industry's "secret weapon" in a fight for the consumer's dollar.

The milk industry is concerned about the growing surplus of dairy products and is seeking ways to increase sales. B. F. Castle, executive director of the Milk Industry Foundation, told the dairymen that they must make more facts about milk and dairy products available to American consumers to boost sales. The answer, of course, lies in increased advertising.

It is true that the dairy industry has long been conscious of the importance of sound advertising in the sale of dairy products, but it is also true that the industry has concentrated much of its efforts and funds on legislative lobbying activities designed to restrict its competition and promote dairy sales through legislative commandments.

This course of action, effective for years, no longer meets the problem. The dairy industry must sell its products strictly on merit. It has excellent products, the finest food in the world, but to market the tremendous volume of milk and milk products, the industry needs more customers. Those customers can be secured through an energetic advertising program. It has been done by the citrus fruit growers who increased per capita consumption from 18 pounds in 1909 to 56 pounds in 1940.

Too Many Square Pegs In Round Holes

A University of Chicago professor declares that half of all American adults are misplaced persons—in their work, that is.

He thinks the unfortunate job choices so many people make have a good deal to do with our high rates of divorce and mental illness. Why do they wander into the wrong paths in such great numbers?

One reason seems to be that until the last decade or two very few ever exercised much care in picking a job. It often could be said that a man gave more real thought to choosing a new car or radio than to deciding his wife's work.

A big part of the trouble was that as modern life grew increasingly complex it became harder for a man both to measure his own talents and to size up the suitability of various jobs. The tendency of too many has been to drift into whatever work appeared handy. Once set in a particular groove, and saddled with family responsibilities, people have little chance but to stick.

There's a second big reason: industrial civilization, founded on machines in both office and factory, inevitably involves many tasks that are monotonous, routine and dull. They're broken down into such small segments that an individual worker seldom sees or can understand the whole operation.

Like a soldier in battle, the worker never knows how the war is going. He just knows what's happening to Hill 605. And that knowledge isn't very satisfying. Not like the deep pleasure and pride the craftsman of old gained when he turned out a well-made boot or carriage.

Slowly we've been developing answers to these problems. Vocational guidance is winning a bigger and bigger place in our schools. Job counselors try to tell us what we're fit for, what talents various tasks demand, and what opportunities lie in those fields. Sometimes a man has to settle for his second or third choice because there's simply no room for him in the fields he likes most.

Furthermore, business and industry are growing steadily more aware they must somehow make dull jobs palatable. Either by reminding workers constantly of the rounded picture into which their work fits, and thus giving them a solid sense of achievement; or by helping them develop side interests that provide real compensation for the satisfaction missed on the job.

Most social scientists probably would agree with the Chicago professor that these problems go right to the root of our modern day social unrest. You don't make happy men or build happy homes and families when so many people spend most of their waking hours at chores which either bore them or actually upset them.

A good start has been made, but we need much more attention in schools and in industry to the problem of bringing real human satisfaction into the workaday world.

Telephone Strike Postponed 60 Days

THE decision to postpone the telephone strike for at least 60 days, proposed by President Truman and accepted by both sides in the dispute, offers some hope that the nation-wide strike will not develop at all.

Mr. Truman summed up the issue very aptly when he said that employers engaged in public utilities and unions representing their workers have a special and extraordinary responsibility to settle their differences by agreement and without resort to economic action which may deprive the public of economic benefits of essential services. He asked that the parties, during the 60 day delay, earnestly seek to resolve the disputes through collective bargaining.

The progress or rather the lack of progress in the negotiations thus far hardly promise any genuine cause to believe that the issues will be settled in the next 60 days, but the postponement at least provides a basis for hope that an agreement can be reached. The telephone workers, recalling the loss of wages in the seven week strike of a year or two ago, certainly would like to avoid another work stoppage that would mean more payless paydays.

If the dispute cannot be settled by negotiation, the logical solution is arbitration. In any case, the public is entitled to the protection of a service as essential as the telephone utility.

MAKING AN AXE HANDLE

A good farmer is particular about his axe. A man who chops wood for the kitchen range, parlor base burner and the rusty, sheet metal stove in the farm shop, wants an axe that feels right in his hands. The head must be just the right weight and size; the handle must fit pleasantly in his grip. One could write a part of our nation's history in terms of axes and what they have accomplished in clearing a wilderness for farms, villages and cities. Men and youths have used this tool of ancient lineage to fell millions of trees; axes have cleared strips for roads and chopped a path for the steel rails that carry the iron horse.

Only a few farmers today make their own axe handles. It is easy to step into a hardware store and get one that has been turned out by machine. Father always made his own helms and he planned to keep two or three ahead. Whenever he was walking in the woods, he kept his eyes peeled for second growth hickory. "I like to work with green wood," he would say. "I can do a better job. After the helve is molded, it can cure in the attic until we need a new handle."

It was slow, painstaking work. On a stormy day in March when sleet and rain were beating on the land, he puttered slowly, contentedly along in the warm, cluttered shop. Sometimes a stick did not have a straight grain; that piece would be discarded. He used a piece of broken glass for the final touches after the handshave had done its work. It took an amazing amount of time to turn the helve to suit him. The sharp edge of the glass deftly trimmed out the throat curves and gave just the right line to the waist. At long last when the axe handle was finished to his satisfaction, he would hold it caressingly in his hands and test the balance. "It will do," father would say. That meant another job of old-fashioned, honest craftsmanship was completed.—By Haydn Pearson.

Enunciation: A little too precise and elocutionary. He gives one the impression of having come fresh from one of Hollywood's dictation mills and eager to try out the pretty tricks he has learned.

Acheson Hasn't Closed Door

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Truman's and Secretary of State Dean Acheson's recent press conference statements seem to have given the impression in some quarters that the door has now been slammed shut on all new negotiations with the Russians. But this isn't the picture at all. Secretary Acheson says it is a bad misunderstanding of the U. S. government's position on doing business with the Russians.

It was Connecticut Sen. Brien McMahon's now-famous speech proposing his five-year, $50,000,000,000 peace plan that started this. In it he said, "A fresh proposal for atomic peace, as dramatic as it is sincere, impresses me as urgently desirable."

Senator McMahon has been disturbed that some people took this to mean that he was offering a peace "bribe" to the Russians. The senator says this is a complete misconception, too.

What he proposed was to spend the $10,000,000,000 a year on three programs: President Truman's Four Point program for underdeveloped countries, development of atomic energy everywhere for peace, and general economic aid for all countries, including Russia.

Secretary Acheson was the first high official in the executive branch of the government to comment on the McMahon plan. The secretary's comments were made after full consultation with the president. By his later unqualified endorsement of all Mr. Acheson's words, the president was put in the position of giving full support to two sentences in the secretary's statement which apparently gave many people a wrong idea:

"If we could reach our goal (peace) by agreement, of course that would be highly desirable and the simplest and easiest way to do it. But I think four years of experience have brought us to the realization that that is not possible."

BADLY MISUNDERSTOOD

These words may have been responsible for such headlines as "Acheson Rules Out Any Dramatic New Approach to Soviet," and for stories, editorials and radio commentaries to the same effect.

But after the secretary's press conference remarks were concluded, he was asked one specific question to clear up these points. The question was prefaced by the observation that as a result of Senator McMahon's speech, there had been several suggestions that one more effort should be made to reach agreement with the Russians. Then came this question:

"Do I understand your remarks to mean that you now rule out the possibility of any such negotiations with the Russians?"

The press conference transcripts show that Secretary Acheson made this answer: "No. You certainly misunderstand me badly. We have been negotiating with the Russians steadily on this subject until they walked out on the six-power forum in New York. This thing has been going on since 1946. It isn't that we are not making one more effort. They have walked out of the one place where discussions are going on."

This answer certainly does not mean the United States is unwilling to negotiate with the Russians. It simply restates what has been past policy. This is that there is a proper time and place for negotiating with the Russians or anybody else, on every conceivable subject. The proper place for negotiating on limitation of armaments and control of atomic energy are understood to be the United Nations commissions set up for those specific purposes.

NO BILATERAL TALKS

What has always been ruled out by the state department is two-way negotiations with the Russians on problems concerning other countries. Left wing internationalists have agitated repeatedly in favor of having the two great military powers—Russia and the United States—get together and settle all the world's problems between them. This is no doubt what the Russians would like.

The United States' position today is that it will negotiate with Soviet Russia alone only problems which concern those two governments. Subjects suitable for such discussions would include the treatment of American citizens in Russia, settlement of lend-lease accounts now long overdue, the return of U. S. ships.

But whenever the subjects to be discussed concern other countries, it is the United States' position that these other countries should be present at the negotiations.

ed upon as the correct pattern for the American stage.

In "The American Language," H. L. Mencken remarks, "There was a time when all American actors of any pretensions employed a dialect that was a heavy imitation of the dialect of the West End actors of London. It was taught in all the American dramatic schools, and at the beginning of the present century it was so prevalent on the American stage that a flat 'a' had a melodramatic effect almost equal to that of damn. But the rise of the movies broke down this convention."

I cannot believe that Mr. Keighley's radio speech is his natural way of talking, although it may be so. At any rate, it does strike me as extremely artificial and affected.

Pronunciation: Again, too precise. He prefers "eye-ther" and "ny-ther," "agayn" for again, and finds the broad A irresistible. But like most speakers who assume the broad A, he has difficulty in keeping it under control—it's "bahth" one time, and "ba-a-th" the next, etc.

Also, he makes a fetish of the long "u" (yoo) sound in such words as suit, Susan, saying "see-OOT, see-OO-z'n." It is unfortunate that so fine a director should adopt a miming style of speech.

Score: Voice, 15; enunciation, 15; style, 10; pronunciation, 10. Total, 50. Rating, fair.

Better Take Care of That Infection, Sam!

Good Evening By Clint Dunathan

THROUGH THE YEARS—In the mail the other day was a letter from George Wiltzie of Pine Ridge, who will soon be 85 years old. Born at Sack Bay, he is (at least in our opinion) the oldest Delta-county-born resident.

lived for a time on the Stonington Peninsula and the present "Wiltzie" bay is named for them. Young George has known Escanaba since early boyhood.

"Since I will soon be 85, and only two out of a hundred live to be 90, it makes a person think—and as I think of the old days in Escanaba there is no harm in thinking out loud.

"I think back to the days when you could buy a nice steak for 8 cents a pound, when eggs were 8 cents a dozen, milk 6 cents a quart, liver 5 cents a chunk," writes Mr. Wiltzie, one of the charter members of the Delta County Historical Society.

THE LOCOMOTIVES—Those were the days, too, when airplanes and gasoline motors had not been heard of. Kerosene (for lighting) was in demand, but gasoline went begging at 3 cents a gallon, writes Mr. Wiltzie.

"I remember seeing them bring in the first railroad locomotive on scows. They were wood burners and had large wash tub stacks."

Escanaba also had an iron smelting furnace, according to Wiltzie, who reports that it was operated by the late George English.

It was located in North Escanaba along the bay shore, but cased after a short time and the houses were moved to Escanaba, where some of them may still be seen.

THE FIRST FAIR—Wiltzie reports that in those days a bank was located across from the Gaynor House, with Coval Royce owner and cashier. Above the bank was a school, taught by Miss Ruth Bushill and Mrs. Stanley Tyrell.

"The first fair to be shown in the Upper Peninsula was known as the Delta County Fair," Wiltzie continues. "It was partly organized in 1877 but not shown until 1878 and its president was Isaac A. Pool, who was a writer, and owned a greenhouse. At that time Mr. James Atkinson was publisher of the Iron Post."

"On the executive committee of the fair were Dave Oliver, once Delta county sheriff; C. S. Beath, George Beath's father and an old time railroad conductor. Others were Myra Ephram, Avery Darling and Westland of Brampton."

"Exhibition buildings were those on the Tilden House grounds, such as sheds, barns and the oversized bowling alley."

THE BUSY PORT—In those days Escanaba port was a greater scene of activity than it is today, because of the many small boats plying the bay. Many of the small boats were Indian craft, with two spars and a jib, and they engaged in fishing, freighting and beach combing, Wiltzie reports.

A Mr. Thomas hauled passengers from Fayette to Escanaba and return for many years.

Always a railroad center, Escanaba people have had an intense interest in anything affecting the railroad industry, one of the principal employers in the community. Along with the blessings the railroad brought there

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Jean Stack, Blanche Robar, Roy Cress, Bruce Arnston and Henry Sauers, were elected councilmen in city class elections held at the school yesterday. Escanaba high school seniors will "run" the city, as part of their government class work, on March 4.

Manistique—Dr. and Mrs. N. L. Lindquist are spending the weekend in Milwaukee where Dr. Lindquist is attending a staff meeting at Milwaukee county hospital.

Gladstone—June Schuler has left for Detroit where she will be employed.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith and son have left for a vacation visit in California.

Manistique—The First National Bank, the Manistique and State Savings banks have received word from the U. S. Treasury that about half of the old paper currency has been removed from circulation to date. The large bills are getting scarcer steadily. As soon as any of them are received here, they are replaced with new smaller ones, and the old ones are returned to the treasury.

Gladstone—Miss Margaret Campbell, student nurse at the Cradle hospital in Evanston, Ill., has arrived to spend a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell.

Only after a treaty of peace, when she (Japan) is again her own master, can she bargain effectively and in her own right for the American and other foreign skills and machines and patent rights she so badly needs and desires.—Maj.-Gen. William H. Draper, Jr. (ret.), former under-secretary of Army.

was occasional tragedy. "One morning at the old brown school Steve Murphy came running in, saying, 'Teacher! Have you heard the news? The pay car tipped over and the safe killed the paymaster,' Mr. Perron." Mr. Perron was Levy Perron's father. That was in the '70's."

CENTER OF TOWN—In those days the business center of Escanaba was in the 300 and 400 blocks on Ludington street.

"J. N. Hiller owned a furniture store located where the L & L trucking building is now," says Wiltzie. "On the corner was the Mead Drug store and next to Hiller's was a lot given to Martin Dunn by the village because he was the first white child born in Escanaba."

Among the pioneer residents of the community are Charles Brotherton and H. Vandye, both of whom were employed in the government's sectional land survey of the Upper Peninsula before 1860. Wallace Vandye, only son of the Vandyses, was born in Escanaba, educated here, and later served as captain on one of the carteries out of Milwaukee until his death.

NOT SO GAY—It should be the Gay Eighties—not Gay Nineties says Wiltzie. For the 1890's were marked by hard times, tight money, and depression.

But the 1880's saw Fayette still booming, Ford River mills buzzing Escanaba on the upgrade, and the Flat Rock lumber mills going full blast. Escanaba ore trimmers had bulging pockets and railroad men were drawing big pay for working long hours.

Looking back, George Wiltzie views Escanaba as the town that will never grow old. "We have seen Escanaba for many years, but she still has pink cheeks—and she always will have."

Law Must Prevail

Dear Editor:

For months the nation has been kept in a state of confusion by uncertainty about its coal supplies.

Under the rule of the United Mine Workers normal coal production has been prevented while contract negotiations were pending.

The issue has been used as a political football until the flouting of the public welfare has become a national scandal.

At last the Taft-Hartley Act is being invoked to bring the situation under legal control. It will determine whether organized revolution in one branch of industry, or the law of the land will prevail—whether one union leader or the courts will govern.

Many coal miners are being misled. By subterfuge or otherwise they are incited to disobey the law. They are told "you can't dig coal with the Taft-Hartley Act."

That is true, but men who disobey the law are subject to its penalties or the nation faces anarchy.

If the United Mine Workers won't work pending settlement of their demands, other men should be allowed to work. If they disobey the finding of the courts they should suffer the penalties the same as any other citizen who breaks a law.

So long as laws are on our statute books they should be respected and enforced.

The country is now face to face with the spectre of mob rule or rule by law.

There should be no question of the outcome—law must prevail.

Little Business And Big Government

Dear Editor:

Nation's Business recently ran an article by Henry C. Link of the Psychological Corporation dealing with a survey made among "Little business" to find out what this section of our industrial economy thinks of "big business."

One of the questions was: "Would you rather compete with a private company (large or small) or with a government corporation?" Ninety two per cent replied that they would rather compete with a private company, as against a mere four per cent favoring a government owned business. The remaining four per cent didn't know.

Another question asked: "Which, if any, of the following has produced the most difficult problems for your business: large companies, labor unions, government bureaus, other small companies?" When the answers were tabulated, it was found that 59 per cent said the government bureaus had produced the toughest problems. Large companies and labor unions followed, with but 20 per cent each.

It is clear from this that the smaller businesses of the country now realize that super-government is the worst menace they face—and that, though competition with other businesses may be difficult, to compete with government is virtually impossible. Government has every advantage, it is free from taxes, regulation and legislation that applies to other business. It makes laws to suit itself.

The people can control big business or little business. They can't control big government. It can hamstring and dominate all business, regardless of size.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Bert Andrews, Pulitzer prize-winning chief of the New York Herald Tribune's Washington bureau, has been offered the man-size job of breathing life into the Republican party.

Officially, Andrews' position would be GOP director of public relations—a job now vacant. However, in view of Andrews' thorough knowledge of Washington politics, GOP Chairman Guy Gabrielson is expected to give him an almost free hand in guiding the party's destiny.

Though hard pressed for funds, the Republican national committee feels that Andrews would perform political miracles and consequently have offered him a $40,000 contract to run for seven years.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE SPEEDED

It's an unpleasant but inescapable fact that civilian defense preparations for dealing with any surprise attack on the United States are being speeded up in important talks inside the Pentagon building.

The old days of air-raid wardens, sand buckets and tin hats are now over, and the new civilian defense against atomic war will concentrate chiefly on diversification of industry, blood plasma, and underground garages.

Medical experiments, as a result of the Hiroshima bombing, have shown that whole blood and plasma are the only effective treatment for radioactivity. Thus, large blood banks must be built up.

Also under consideration are underground garages in all major cities. It is believed that these not only can help to solve downtown traffic problem, but serve as air-raid shelters in case of emergency. The problem now under consideration may be so great that federal funds will be advanced to states or cities.

Military planners have also been considering the whole field of war-plant dispersal. In general it's believed that it would be too expensive to uproot certain major industries, such as the auto industry in Detroit. Instead, military planners propose duplicate facilities built on a stand-by basis.

The civilian defense program may lead to enormous expansion of industry capacity and the relocation of some parts of the population, but there will be no drastic changes overnight.

THE ARMY WALKS

Testifying before the house armed services committee, Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was asked why the draft act had to be extended to get men into the army.

"We don't need legislation to get recruits for the navy and air forces," remarked Congressman Doyle of Long Beach, Calif.

"Mr. Doyle's question can be answered very simply," interrupted Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia. "The navy floats. . . the air force flies. . . but the army walks."

LEWIS'S TRAGIC CLIMAX

John L. Lewis, at the age of 70, has reached the most tragic climax of his long career.

His tragedy lies in that he has done more for one great segment of labor than any other individual in history, yet the more he has done for the miners, the less demand he has created for their product. As a result other fuels today have become almost as important as coal.

Another tragedy is that, in waging his battle, John L. and his bushy eyebrows, his stentorian statements and his bulldozing manner have become such a symbol of dislike to the American public that there is little sympathy for the miners he represents. And they deserve sympathy.

Finally, John L., aged, lonely and at the peak of his career, appears to have lost control of his miners for the first time. He had partly lost control during the three-day week, which many of them blamed on him, not understanding that the demand for coal had lessened.

Now they are sore at the operators and Taft-Hartley, and the government which has invoked the T-H act.

SICK INDUSTRY

The truth is that the coal industry is sick. And Lewis, by his work stoppages to win wage increases, has made it sicker. Every strike he called, every wage boost he won increased the demand for oil and natural gas, until today only 26 per cent of the nation's passenger trains burn coal, as against 68 per cent two years ago. Today, also, so many factories, electric power plants and homes are turning to oil that it is doubtful the mines will ever need to work much more than three days a week except in case of emergencies.

That is why President Truman, if he really wanted to solve the coal crisis, could have appointed not

Art Godfrey Is Quite A Fellow

Ruark Knows All About Celebrity

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK.—Mr. Arthur Godfrey, a disreputable acquaintance of mine—low fellow with a fund of frightful stories and an unconquerable cowl—currently enshrined on the cover of Time magazine. It makes Godfrey no less repulsive to the eye, but does seem to call for a requiem of some sort. Time only comes out 52 times a year, and must use some discrimination in its choice of frontal adornment, considering we do have 150 million people around.

When the writer-research team was beagling out information on this freckled fragment of the cro-magnon era, they came round to my house. "We understand," they said, "that you are an old friend of Godfrey's. Tell us all you know about him."

Leers Everywhere
This is what mother meant about hanging out in pool-halls. I have known this platinum-mounted, beachcomber for years, and am occasionally seen in public with him, so I can't say I never heard of the bum. It is a matter of sad fact that no frostbit coolie is planted so deeply in Lower Slobbovia that he is not constantly affronted by Godfrey, leering from the television, leering from the papers, leering from the magazines—or haunted by the aching croak of a laryngitic bull-frog, which is what Huck Finn, 1950, uses in lieu of a voice.

So how I get to fretting about what I know of Godfrey, over the last 15 years, and finally decide that of what I know of Godfrey, very little is fit to print. At least in family newspapers. I love this ancient urchin in a hearty, non-neurotic manner, but there again, it is merely a reflection of my own coarse tastes in humanity.

What do I know of Godfrey—statesman, world traveler, nature-lover, bon vivant, intimate of royalty, ukulele player and wishful singer?

Well, he makes maybe nine million dollars a minute, but my dog won't let him sing in the house, and he will eat that uke right out of his fist if Arthur so much as strikes a note. Now ain't this a thing to have to say about a man who is famous enough to get on Time's cover?

Earned $5 Per Week
So what else do I know of Godfrey, the man in the iron-mask of ingrained unbecutty? Well, one time I wrote a piece reviving the ukulele, and this literary shoplifter glommed onto the idea and made the instrument a scourge among the people. Is this gratitude for a decade of faithful friendship? No, sire. This is petty larceny.

Godfrey? Sure, I know Godfrey. Godfrey, the warbling banjoiist, who once earned five (5) whole dollars each week on a birdseed program in Baltimore. Godfrey, who got sprung out of the Coast Guard by a drunken governor whom Arthur was able to prop, successfully in front of a microphone. Godfrey, the rump-sprung desk clerk of hotels where everybody registered as Mr. and Mrs. John Smith?

Godfrey? The peddler of hot cemetery lots? The Chicago taxi-driver? The boxing champion of the Mediterranean fleet when nonpareil Jack Dempsey was squirming in his diapers? Do you people really know how old this musty relic is?

Sure, I know Godfrey. This is the junior-grade Roberto Rossellini of the Mauve decade, who learned mathematics by playing pinchy-winchy with his high school algebra teacher. This is the dead-eye diagnostician of his fellow man, who robs his starving lawyer at gin rummy, and once let the oil millionaire, Glenn McCarthy, off the gambling hook because he thought McCarthy was a poor young fellow who couldn't afford to lose. If Godfrey was a bird dog he would chase rabbits.

Godfrey, you say? This is the man who sent me a vulgar ashtray for Christmas, instead of the usual case of scotch. The rich get richer, is what I always say.

What can I tell you of Godfrey, except that when he got in an accident once it punched three holes in his heart, busted 127 major bones, but left his skull undamaged? What can I say except that his energy is limitless, his wit the liveliest, his friendship boundless, and that he should live, already, another 100 years? This would be stretching the truth a touch, because if you want the solid dope on Godfrey, he dyes his hair, paints on his freckles, and is really Jesse James.

Railway Wage Rates Mount

Prices Of Materials Also Have Doubled

LANSING — Railroad wage rates have gone up two and one-half times and the level of prices of fuel, materials and supplies has almost doubled since 1921, yet today's railroad charges are only 3 per cent higher than in 1921, the Michigan Railroad Association reports.

Even though the same amount of labor, fuel and supplies for which the lines paid $1 in 1921 now costs an average of $2.25, labor and materials are combined and used so efficiently, the association states, that the average unit of service, freight and passenger together, which the railroads produced in 1921 for an operating cost of $1 is now produced for $1.03; and, it adds, the service is sold to the public as charges which, on the average, have increased since 1921 no more than the same 3 per cent.

"The expenditure of $17 billion on additions and betterments since 1921 is responsible for the increased efficiency," the association reports. "It made possible the virtually doubled average daily transportation output of freight cars; a more-than-doubled daily output of locomotives; a 150 per cent increase in the average hourly service of freight trains and the achievement of the safest operation in transportation history. The effect of this is that the saving in operating cost, as compared with what it would have been if railroads were using materials and manpower at present prices and wages but with the efficiency of 1921, amounted in 1949 alone to more than $9 billion—a saving which has been passed on to the public and the best part of the story is that it is still going on, because railroad efficiency is constantly on the increase and savings to the public will continue into the future.

Kiwanis Plans Annual Parley

10,000 To Attend At Miami In May

More than 10,000 persons are expected to attend the 35th annual convention of Kiwanis International, Miami, May 7 to 11 at Miami, Fla., officers of the Kiwanis club of Escanaba were informed today.

Vernon Berg, president of the club, said that reports from the Miami Kiwanis convention headquarters indicate that preparations for the five-day meeting are fast nearing completion.

Many nationally known figures will be on hand to address delegates, representing 3,100 clubs and 200,000 members throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii and the Yukon Territory, Mr. Berg said.

These speakers will include, among others, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, General Carlos P. Romulo, president of the United Nations, the Rev. Marshall R. Reed, bishop of the Methodist church in the Detroit area, and John Fisher, Toronto, widely known Canadian radio commentator and newspaper columnist.

Delegates also will participate in panel conferences on numerous Kiwanis-sponsored activities, ranging from public affairs, boys and girls work and agriculture to support of churches in their spiritual aims. An outstanding program also is being planned for the wives of Kiwanians, Mr. Berg said.

Anticipating a huge delegate registration, Kiwanis International established its convention headquarters at Miami in January. At the same time, the organization began planning the many features that tie into a nationwide meeting of business and professional leaders.

J. Hugh Jackson, dean of the graduate school of business at Stanford University, Stanford, Calif., and president of Kiwanis International, will preside over the various convention sessions.

Isadore Furie of Chicago has entered Ravenswood hospital for surgery. Mr. Furie is a son of Matt Furie, 609 South 11th street, Escanaba.

best part of the story is that it is still going on, because railroad efficiency is constantly on the increase and savings to the public will continue into the future.

Nationwide Has Connection With Capital Airlines

Effective Feb. 22, Capital Airlines will act as agents for Nationwide Airlines at the Capital City Airport at Lansing. The Herbert Aviation Company formerly provided this service.

The arrangement with Capital Airlines offers numerous advantages to persons travelling to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Reservations may now be made at any time between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 11:30 p. m. daily. In addition, limousine pick-up service will now be available to passengers desiring this service from downtown Lansing points to the airport, and from the airport to downtown points for passengers arriving on Nationwide's flights.

In addition to taking reservations and issuing tickets, Capital Airlines will provide certain necessary ground services for the flight operated through Lansing by Nationwide. Persons desiring reservations or information concerning Nationwide's service are requested to call the telephone number listed in the directory for Nationwide rather than the Capital Airlines number.

Delta 4-H Leaders Attend Recreation School At Newberry

A group of Delta county 4-H Club leaders have returned from Newberry where they attended a recreation training school conducted by Miss Jane Farwell. Junior 4-H leaders last week attended a similar school held at Marquette.

The adult leaders from Delta at the Newberry meeting were Mrs. Ted McFadden and Mrs. Perley Way of Cornell, Mrs. Melvin Nyquist and Miss Laurel Plourde of Escanaba; Mrs. Elmer Brock of Kipling, Mrs. Ina Lundberg and Mrs. Norrie Holmlund of Ensign, Miss Ingrid Tervonen, county home demonstration leader, and Mel Nyquist, county 4-H agent.

Last night the Delta County 4-H Service Club met at Cornell, where Russell Bolm and Joan Peterson, 4-H Junior leaders of Gladstone Rt. 1, demonstrated recreation lessons learned at the Marquette school.

Hardwood Used To Make Paper; Costs Reduced

NEW YORK.—(P)—The New York State College of Forestry announced it has devised the first successful, commercial method of making good, cheap paper pulp from hardwood.

Two forestry college professors made the announcement in a report to a meeting of the Technical Association of the pulp and paper industry.

The professors, C. Earl Libby and Frederic W. O'Neill, said the process would reduce the cost of pulp for the manufacture of newspaper and other paper products by at least $25 a ton.

They said quality hardwood pulp could be produced by the new process at a cost of less than $40 a ton, and could be substituted for ground spruce pulp currently selling for $65 a ton.

Ground spruce pulp is used in the manufacture of newspaper and many other paper products.

The hardwood pulp process re-

Lions Meet
HERMANSVILLE.—The Hermansville Lions club met Monday evening at the IXL hotel. After sulted from a five-year $400,000 research project conducted by the forestry college and sponsored by 14 paper mills in New York, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Maine and Canada.

The researchers called their discovery a "chemi-groundwood process of manufacturing pulp from hardwoods."

One of them said it could revolutionize the paper industry and put many American paper mills back into the newspaper business. Most newspaper now is manufactured in Canada because of the prevalence of spruce.

Margaret Kilb, Joseph Michel Exchange Vows

PERRONVILLE—Pink gladioli were arranged on the altars of St. Michael's church in Perronville for the wedding Saturday morning, February 18, of Mary Margaret Kilb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kilb of Whitney, and Joseph Royal Michel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michel of Schaffer. Father Gabriel Waraxa officiated at the 9:30 o'clock nuptial high mass.

For her wedding the bride chose a delicate pink wool dress styled with a V neckline, snug-fitting buttoned bodice and full skirt with cutwork pink lace pockets. Her white cloche with inch-wide jeweled band was swatched with pink veiling. White roses formed her corsage.

Miss Janice Schoen of Green Bay wore a gray wool jersey and pink accessories for her role as maid of honor for her cousin. A corsage of deep pink roses complemented her costume.

James Michel of Milwaukee was best man for his brother.

The bride's mother wore a black crepe with wine accessories. Both mothers had corsages of yellow daffodils.

Mrs. Theodore Dault was soloist of the wedding mass and Mrs. Clem Sullivan of Powers, organist. Mrs. Dault sang "Ave Maria" by Bach-Gounod at the offertory, "Panis Angelicus", "O Lord I Am Not Worthy" and "Mother at Your Feet We Are Kneeling." The traditional Wedding March from "Lohengrin" was played by Mrs. Sullivan as the bride approached the altar with her father who gave her in marriage, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was the recessional.

Breakfast and Dinner
A wedding breakfast for the immediate family was served at 11 o'clock at Belle's Coffee shop in Escanaba, and a dinner at 6:45 for relatives and close friends at the Sherman hotel. The three-tiered wedding cake, trimmed with pink roses and topped with a white wedding bell centered the table appointments. Two bridal dolls, one in pink and one in blue, were at either side of the cake and matching tapers were at the ends of the table. Pink gladioli bouquets completed the table decorations. The reception program included solos by Mrs. Dault and by Father Waraxa and assembly singing, the latter group including many old-time French melodies.

The newlyweds will make their home at Whitney. The bride who teaches in Schaffer attended Ripon college at Ripon, Wis., where she was a member of Pi Tau Pi sorority, and Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette. Her husband, a graduate of Escanaba high school, spent three years in the service in the European and Pacific theatres and now is attending Cloverland Commercial college in Escanaba.

Gift of Myrtle
Out-of-town guests at the wedding were James Michel and Mrs. Richard Donovan of Milwaukee; Miss Janice Schoen of Green Bay; Miss Lorraine Devine, Menominee; Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Turk, Iron Mountain; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Skowlund, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Michel, Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Michel, Marinette; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Villeneuve, Escanaba; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michel and daughter, Donna Mae, Schaffer; and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Dault and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Sullivan of Powers.

Among the wedding gifts was a slip of a myrtle plant brought from Czechoslovakia, received from a close friend, Ida Operude of Milwaukee, with the traditional maxim, "The bride who plants the myrtle on her wedding day will have love, joy and success."

The average man exhales approximately 200,000,000 particles in a single breath.

Flint 4 Sings In White House

Antlers Were Starred On Escanaba Program

The Flint Antlers, nationally famed barber shop quartet featured on a program presented by the Escanaba Barber Shop chorus last October, recently became the first SPEBSQSA foursome in the society's 12-year history to entertain at the White House. The Flint singers also provided barber shop harmony for a world-wide radio audience through the U. S. State Department's "Voice of America." The Antlers are among quartets being considered to accept a U. S. Army invitation to tour the Far East and sing for troops next Spring.

After entertaining in the East Wing of the White House, the Antlers, past Michigan champions, presented albums of their latest recordings, including "Cool Water," to Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to the president. Later the Antlers sang "Cool Water" for Carl D. Shoemaker, Washington correspondent for the National Wildlife Federation.

The Federation wants Americans to sing songs of the outdoors and nature in connection with the celebration of National Wildlife Restoration Week, March 19-25. It will be assisted by 600 city and small town chapters of the SPEBSQSA.

Milwaukee's High Life quartet has already volunteered their services for Wildlife Week. They will feature a special version of "Way Up North in Wisconsin," written by the High Life tenor, John Sutschek, and originally composed by Edward Berg, Milwaukee barber shop singer.

Edgar C. Barker Seriously Ill

Edgar C. Barker of Oak Ridge, Tenn., husband of the former Mary Jane Ehnerd, is critically ill and reports last night from the hospital in which he is receiving treatment, were that his condition showed no improvement. Mrs. Barker who came from Oak Ridge by plane called by the death of her father, William Ehnerd, is leaving for home tonight. It is planned to take Mr. Barker by ambulance plane to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., if no improvement is noted within the next twenty-four hours.

Community Card Club

Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Painter entertained the members of the Community Card Club Friday evening in the local township hall. Three tables of 500 and two of cribbage were in play with high honors in 500 going to Mrs. Kermit Tressler and in cribbage to Walter Richards. Following cards sandwiches, pickles and coffee were served. After lunch several reels of movies were shown by Walter Richards. The movies consisted of interesting local, Canadian and Minnesota scenes. Those attending the party included Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Tressler, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Mainville, Mr. and Mrs. Laurel Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Richards, Mrs. Helma Anderson, Mrs. Frank Chaney, Mrs. Frank Kirby, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Harvey Mainville, Mrs. Norbert Mainville, Mrs. Harry Skinner, Mrs. Perry Mark, Mrs. Martin Harju, Mrs. William Poppe, Floyd Tucker, and Emil Fretche.

W. S. C. S.

Mrs. A. J. Mainville was hostess to members of the Women's Society of Christian Service at her home Wednesday evening. Mrs. John Brodie led the group in prayer. Roll call was taken and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Plans were discussed and committees appointed for a "family night," supper and program to be given Wednesday, March 1.

Those present at the meeting were Mrs. Wilmer Harkness, Mrs. John Brodie, Mrs. John Armstrong, Mrs. Ulrich Gouin, Mrs. Frank Kirby and Miss Olive Mark.

Church services will be conducted in the local Methodist church Sunday at 10 a. m., with John F. Brodie, Pastor, officiating. Sunday school at 11 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry C. Mark have returned home following a short visit in Sault Ste. Marie.

Joseph and Carl Taylor, who have been employed at Port Huron arrived here this week to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Terry arrived home Saturday after spending the past week visiting relatives in Detroit, Royal Oak and Pontiac and with friends in Rochester, Mich.

Citizens Urge Tax Reduction

Rep. Potter Back From District

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (WNS) — Not only wiping out of excise taxes but reduction of taxes generally is demanded in the Eleventh Congressional District in Michigan which he represents, Rep. Charles E. Potter said.

Rep. Potter has been in his district and has contacted a large number of his constituents. Upon his return he said there is concern there over heavy taxation and that the people were concerned also over the waste of their

Tanner-Heath Wedding

The following was taken from a Baltimore, Md., paper: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heath sr., of W. 27 St., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Frances Heath to Cpl. Jay D. Tanner, U. S. A. P., son of Mrs. Maude Tanner of Escanaba and Jay Tanner of McMillan. The Rev. Clare J. O'Dwyer performed the ceremony on Dec. 27 at St. S. Philip and James church. Miss Eleanor Heath was her sister's maid of honor. Mr. Robert Burdakin served as best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Cpl. and Mrs. Tanner reside at 2928 San Rafael Drive, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

money in Washington by the administration.

"The people in my district work hard for the taxes they have to pay," Rep. Potter said, "and naturally they are disturbed about the waste which takes place. They want curtailment so that taxes can be reduced."

Rep. Potter stated that the agricultural producers in the Eleventh Congressional district are opposed to the plan which Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan is striving to put through. He said that even under existing laws, farmers have a choice of entering into a marketing agreement or staying out of it.

"But under the Brannan plan they have not such a choice," he said, "and would be required to go into it with all of its regimentation and the telling of farmers how much they could plant and what."

He said the big problem is distribution. He said new markets should be found, distribution improved along with administration. "We are importing butter from Denmark right now," Rep. Potter stated, "and that is disturbing to our dairy producers."

How To Get Along By Just Talking

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(P)—America is full of people who want to do something big—but just sit around and talk about it.

Such is the sad life story of Mel Allen, one of the most successful failures in the history of sports.

Mel always yearned to be an athlete, particularly a star baseball player. Today he lets Joe DiMaggio play the game, while he just sits and talks about it.

But there is a golden lining to his cloud. Allen gets between $150,000 and $200,000 a year for his oral exercise.

And when he thinks of this career irony, he well might employ a phrase familiar to millions of his fans:

"How about that?"

For at 37 this frustrated outfielder who couldn't even make his college team is one of the highest-paid figures in a new industry—sportscasting. The tools are a voice, a microphone and a knowledge of sports.

"A kid I woke up every day for sports," said Mel, recalling his hole-in-one-shoe youth down south.

"I wasn't good enough to win a baseball letter in the field at the University of Alabama, so I got one by being student manager of the team."

He earned a law degree, too, and passed the bar. But he didn't want to be a lawyer. He preferred a job in Birmingham broadcasting football games. The salary: $5 a Saturday—in season.

Allen came to New York as a CBS announcer and soon switched to sports. Now he broadcasts the New York Yankee baseball games, has a weekly network program of his own, does two news-reel sportscasts a week, the world series, the all-star games, and special boxing and basketball events.

The secret of his success? "To me sports are still glamorous—and always will be. I'm still country boy enough to be thrilled by the personalities, and I get as excited as any other fan."

Mel, a handsome 6-foot-one-inch bachelor, lives simply with his parents and brother and likes to cook his own breakfast. Whenever he can, at home or on the road, he works out with the Yankees to keep in shape.

Husing Sets Pattern
Casey Stengel has this to say about his fielding ability:

"You play every hop of the ball perfectly—except for the last one."

Allen is the new president of the Sports Broadcasters Association and thinks the standards of "the profession" are getting higher.

"Graham McNamee was the pioneer in sports broadcasting," he said. "But we all look upon Ted Husing as the guy who set the modern pattern. Graham emphasized description. Ted was the first to concentrate on accuracy and play by play accounts—as well as color."

"There is still room for tremendous improvement, but in the last ten years announcers around the country have realized they must be accurate above everything else. Today you have to know a game as well as a coach or player does. Television has done that."

Before you buy that gabby son of yours a toy microphone and rules book, listen to Mel on the opportunities in sportscasting:

"There are only 25 jobs in the country a fellow would want to work up to and say, 'this is it—this is where I want to stay the rest of my life.'"

"But, of course, there are a lot of sports announcing jobs that pay a good reasonable living—perhaps 200."

Has Close CallBuried In Mass Of Stoker Coal

Timely assistance on the part of alert employees averted tragedy at the Manistique Pulp & Paper company mill Wednesday afternoon.

Robert Rozing, 19, whose duty it was to keep stoker coal flowing from the hopper to the conveyor leading to the furnace, was completely buried in an avalanche of the pulverized fuel and was helpless until rescued.

The hopper, a huge tanklike affair had become clogged and Rozing was trying to get the sooty mass flowing freely again, when something happened to the source of coal from above, and several tons of the fuel poured upon him. Paul Fountain saw the accident, called for help and immediately went to the rescue. The rescue took but a few seconds. The young man was promptly given medical attention and an examination disclosed that he suffered no ill effects.

Birthday Fete

The annual George Washington birthday party, a tradition with Manistique Masons was observed in the manner of past years at the Masonic hall with Masons and their ladies in attendance. About 100 were present.

Eastern Star ladies served the 6:30 dinner that started the festivities with baked ham and cherry pies special items on the menu. The Consistory Quartette, of Marquette favored with several numbers at the close of the dinner.

At the program in the lodge room, following the dinner, Ralph Eldridge, a 33rd degree Mason and prominent in Commandery and consistory activities, spoke on Masonry and dealt briefly with the part George Washington played in the craft. George Stevenson, master of the local lodge presided during the session.

Among the Marquette visitors at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, W. H. Bath, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smith, L. Johns, C. Gustafson and C. Yoder.

Annual Cookie
Sale Is Planned
By Girl Scouts

Manistique Girl Scouts will conduct their annual sale of cookies in the city, beginning next week, and the funds derived from the sale will be used toward defraying the expenses of the Scout program in Manistique. Plans for the event were made at a meeting of the Girl Scout Council held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. L. LeDuc, Indian Lake. Funds in the Scout treasury are depleted, and it is hoped that with the aid of the Community Chest Drive, and the cookie sale that the Scout program can be carried through the year.

The various Scout and Brownie troops will make a house to house canvass in the city requesting orders for the cookies, and deliveries will be made during National Girl Scout Week in March, about March 17.

The cookies are of the same variety that met with popularity in past years, the dark and light cream filled cookies with Scout emblem. Mrs. W. J. Sheahan, finance chairman of the Scout council is in charge of the sale.

Plans were also announced for the annual Girl Scout Rally on March 11 at Lincoln school, by Miss Winifred Orr, program chairman. All troops of the city will participate in the rally, which is held in recognition of the birthday of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting. Each troop contributes to the program with a playlet, song or dance number. Collection of the Juliette Low Fund, which is used toward helping needy children abroad, is made at the rally.

Plans were also discussed by the council for camping at Timbertrail next summer, with the council voting to again assist the campers by paying $2 a week toward each girl's fee, up to two weeks of camping. Timbertrail rates have been increased to $15 per week for the coming season. Many of the troops are already engaged in various sales of greeting cards, wrappings, and have other projects to help defray their camping trips.

Mrs. John Hanson, recently elected Scout Commissioner presided at the meeting.

Mrs. LeBrasseur Is Honored For Service
To Girl Scouts

Mrs. E. L. LeBrasseur, who recently resigned as Manistique Girl Scout Commissioner after being connected with the local Scout program for 25 years, was honored Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Girl Scout Council at the home of Mrs. J. L. LeDuc, Indian Lake.

Mrs. LeBrasseur had her first Scouting experience as a Brownie, and continued through the Intermediate, Junior and Senior Scout ranks, before taking part in the leadership of the program. She has served in practically all capacities on the Council since its organization in 1941, and recently completed three years as Commissioner. She will continue as a council member, secretary.

In tribute to her years of service she was presented with an attractive "25 year" pin and a lovely gift by the Council members. A dainty luncheon was served by Mrs. LeDuc at the close of the evening.

Social

For Scout Leaders

Mrs. E. J. Brenner entertained the Girl Scout Leaders' association on Monday night at her home on Walnut Street. During the business meeting plans were discussed for the training of leaders, and a record made of all Girl Scout books and pamphlet material owned by the council.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess with attractive decorations for Washington's birthday. Mrs. John Ott was awarded the prize in an appropriate Washington Day contest.

Carl O. Mattson,
Timberman, DiesFuneral Services
At 2 Saturday

Carl Oscar Mattson, 71, retired timber jobber, died at his home on M-94 in Hiawatha township Thursday afternoon following a brief illness.

Mr. Mattson was born in Sweden, Nov. 7, 1878, and resided in Schoolcraft county for about fifty years. Besides his widow, he is survived by a son, Henning; a brother, Ernest; and a sister, Mrs. Paul Nelson of Thompson.

He was a member of the Zion Lutheran church of Manistique and the Zion Brotherhood.

Funeral services will be held at 2 Saturday afternoon at the Kefauver & Jackson funeral home, with Rev. G. A. Herbert officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Briefly Told

In anticipation of the near approach to Washington's birthday anniversary, the Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, used the patriotic motif in the evening's table and decorations at their last regular meeting Monday. Figurines of both Washington and Lincoln enhanced the candelabra appointments.

Mrs. Harry Seore gave a very interesting treatise on Washington during the dark days at Valley Forge an article that emphasized the Washingtonian principle of duty before reward.

Cards and bunco followed the program. In five hundred Margaret Christy scored first and Vivian Miller, second. Clara Dich-nau scored low. In Luncheon, Ann Wilcox scored high, Helga Larson, second and Minnie Hutchinson low. A special prize was awarded Lauretta Ramsden.

Lions Club—The Lions Club meeting scheduled for next Tuesday evening, February 28, will not be held. The meeting will be held the following Tuesday evening instead.

Special Masonic Meeting—There will be a special communication of Lakeside Lodge No. 371 F. & A. M. on Saturday. There will be work in the third degree which will start at four o'clock in the afternoon. There will be a dinner at 6:30 in the evening followed by completion of initiation activities. Visiting brethren welcome.

C. of C. Requests
Reconsideration
Of Valuations

The Manistique-Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce board of directors, at a special meeting Wednesday evening, voted unanimously a recommendation to the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors that that body reconsider its previous decision to set the county tax valuations at 80 per cent of full value.

According to the communication, signed by L. J. Harbick, chamber president, "The Chamber of Commerce does not recommend any such valuation, but considers the issue of great importance to the people of Schoolcraft county and further study and public discussion should be entered into."

Prince Charles
Has Namesakes

LONDON—(P)—More and more Britons are naming their sons after Prince Charles. Birth notice columns of the "London Daily Telegraph" alone showed 54 babies christened Charles in 1949—more than double the number in 1948.

It was still well down the popularity list, however, John led, as usual, with 179, followed by David, Richard, Michael and Christopher in that order. Elizabeth—the name of the prince's mother—held second place on the girls' list. First was Susan, with Jane in third place.

First Community
Lenten Service
Held Thursday

The first service in the current Community Lenten Series was held Thursday evening at the Presbyterian church, and was favored with a good attendance.

A new feature of this particular service was the participation of some of the ladies in the World Day of Prayer endeavor. The service was arranged by Mrs. Arthur Thorp and included some choral reading by a group of ladies giving a beautiful definition of prayer and an invitation to silent prayer.

The Rev. Mr. Herbert Wilson, to whom a fitting tribute was paid for his outstanding contribution to our community, brought a vital inspirational message on the theme: "Thy Kingdom Come. Thy will be done." As possibly the last time he will participate as an active pastor in any community church enterprise, he was highly commended for his active interest in the promotion of co-operation between churches here and elsewhere.

A sound movie film, "Beyond Our Own" was shown following the workshop part of the program and inspired all in attendance to more active participation in the work of the Church of Jesus Christ.

On Thursday night of next week, March 2, the second service in the Community Lenten Series will be held. Meeting in the Bethel Baptist church, the Rev. Mr. Peter Porta, pastor of the Baptist church in Gulliver, will bring the message, "Lord Is It?" Special music by the choir of the Bethel Baptist church and the girls ensemble will add to the effectiveness of this service.

The service will begin promptly at 7:30 p. m., and will include other ministers of local churches participating in the various parts of the service.

4-H Young Folks
Attend Leaders
School Session

Ruth Nelson of Manistique township, Russell Wood, Doyle township and Gene Allen of Hiawatha township attended the 4-H Junior Leaders School at Marquette last week. The school was attended by representatives from all counties in the Upper Peninsula.

Recreation was the main feature on the three-day program, with Miss Jane Farwell in charge. Miss Farwell, formerly employed by the National Recreation Committee, is considered one of the nation's outstanding recreation leaders.

The school also gave the young people training in developing local 4-H club programs, demonstrations, and work on the subject matter available in 4-H club projects.

The school was conducted by the State 4-H Club staff from Michigan State College with the assistance of the Upper Peninsula 4-H club staff. The Schoolcraft county group was accompanied by Fred C. Bernhardt, district 4-H Club agent.

Death Of Young Texas Boxer Brings On Ring Checkup In New York

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK.—(P)—Boxing, subject of many probes, went under the microscope again today as ring and civil authorities sought an answer to the death of Lavern Roach, good-looking, 24-year-old middleweight of Plainview, Tex.

Two investigations were ordered immediately to determine if negligence played a part in the fatal brain injury to the boyish ex-Marine. He died yesterday 14 hours after he was knocked out in a fight at St. Nicholas arena.

No charges were brought against his opponent, George Small of Brooklyn, who smashed Roach to the canvas twice with retelling right hand blows in the tenth round.

The New York State Athletic commission had an open hearing this morning. Chairman Edward Eagan, who presided, said a preliminary examination showed no infraction of commission rules.

The district attorney's office launched a widespread investigation, calling in all persons connected with the Wednesday night bout.

Detective Lt. Henry Devlin of the New York police said, "there does not appear to be any negligence at this time." He saw the bout.

At Albany, State Assemblyman Richard Knauf of Binghamton said he would press for quick legislative action on his proposal calling for a $50,000 probe of the sport. His resolution has been in the assembly since Jan. 1.

Roach died at 12:50 p. m., (EST) at St. Clare's hospital. He was in a deep coma at the time and the official hospital bulletin attributed the death to a "cerebral hemorrhage and brain damage."

The fighter's wife, Evelyn, and his manager and onetime Marine sergeant, Johnny Abood, were at the bedside.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, physician of the State Athletic commission, remained with Roach throughout the night after giving him preliminary treatment at the arena. Four other doctors attended the stricken boxer.

Roach, voted the brightest rookie prospect of 1947 by Ring magazine, gave Small a beating in the early rounds and had a long lead on points until the knockout came.

Small jarred the Texan with a right-hand smash to the mouth in the eighth, bringing a lot of blood. He felled Roach twice with rights in the tenth round before Referee Frank Fullam stepped in to stop hostilities. The time was 1:57.

As the small crowd of 1,832 poured for the exits there was no indication at first that Roach was badly hurt. He talked with handlers as he sat in his corner.

Shortly afterwards, however, he slumped over on his stool, unconscious, while thousands of television fans watched. He never came out of the coma.

Dr. Nardiello administered a restorative. When there was no response, the fighter was taken to the dressing room on a stretcher, then to the hospital.

Small, a 23-year-old corner in his division, was distraught over Roach's death.

"My stomach is going like this," he said, "I thought he was fresher than I was."

Small cancelled a fight scheduled at Madison Square Garden March 10. It was the first ring death of the year and the tenth among professionals in the United States in the last 14 months.

The tournament tomorrow will be the Pine Mountain Invitational meet. The event Sunday will be the 15th annual Kiyvanis Ski club competition.

John Grodesky To Compete In Iron Mountain Ski Meet

John Grodesky will represent the Escanaba Ski club in the ski jumping tournament off Iron Mountain's giant Pine Mountain ski tomorrow and Sunday.

Grodesky, a jumper of many years' experience, will be competing in his sixth Iron Mountain tournament. Iron Mountain has the highest artificial ski scaffold in the world. The Escanaba left today to practice for the meet.

Shamrocks In Class A Final

Harnischfeger And Manistique Also Win

The Escanaba Shamrocks breezed into the final round of the Class A independent basketball tournament here last night, trouncing Harry's Service of Munising, 65-33. In other tournament games, Harnischfeger defeated Trenary, 55-41, and the Manistique Legion eliminated Groos Drug, 40-32.

Class B semi-final games will be played tonight at the junior high school gymnasium. Mike's Bar will play the Manistique Legion at 7:30 o'clock and Harnischfeger will meet the Cloverland College team at nine o'clock.

The Shamrocks simply had too much for the Munising quintet last night. The Escanabans began to pull away from the visitors in the second period and turned the game into a rout in the second half. Bob Dufour scored 26 points for the Shamrocks.

Harnischfeger's team hit about 40 percent of its shots to block the challenge of the Trenary team. The Harnischfeger team took an early lead and held it throughout.

The Manistique Legion pulled away from the Groos team in the second half after the Escanabans had taken a 19-16 lead at half time.

In winning the tournament, Gladstone defeated Escanaba, St. Joseph's of Escanaba and Menominee. During season they won from Bark River-Harris, St. Joseph's (twice), Munising, Escanaba and Stephenson while losing to Manistique, Munising, Escanaba and Norway. They play their last game Friday evening against Manistique in the preliminary to the Manistique-Gladstone varsity game.

Gladstone Takes Intercity Title

The Gladstone Indians hockey team won the inter-city championship last night by defeating the Escanaba Hawks, 5 to 3, for the second successive victory in a scheduled three-game series. The Gladstone victory eliminates the necessity for a third game. The Indians racked up a 2-0 lead in the first period. Haga opened the scoring with an assist from Sinclair and later in the period Sinclair banged home the second goal for Gladstone, with an assist by O'Leary.

Eskymos Play At Kingsford

Last Game Before District Tourney

The Eskymos basketball team will travel to Kingsford this afternoon to meet the Kingsford high school cagers tonight in the last game of the season before the district tournament.

Coach Steve Baltic will take a squad of nine men to Kingsford. They are Dick Shomin, Paul Baldwin, Warren Johnston, Axel Anderson, Jim Prokos, Dick Johnson, Tom Smith, Pat Farrell and Harold Cloutier. Shomin will start at center, Baldwin and Johnston at guards; Anderson and Prokos at forward positions.

The reserve teams of the two schools will play a preliminary game, scheduled for 6:45, CST, and the varsity game is booked for 8:15, also central standard time.

The Flivvers have a slightly better record than the Eskymos this year but if the Eskymos can regain the form they showed against Menominee two weeks ago, Coach Baltic believes his squad can pull an upset at the expense of the Flivvers.

Braves Clash With Emeralds

Rivals To Meet In Return Game

GLADSTONE—The Gladstone high school Braves clash with the Manistique Emeralds in the second of a home-and-home series at the local gym this evening.

It is the last game on the regular Gladstone schedule and victory in it will give Gladstone the Great Lakes Conference championship.

The Braves have a record of 12 wins and one loss—the only blot on the season's record to date being a defeat by Coach Watson's classy Ishpeming five.

Manistique, which got off to a mediocre start, has come to the fore with a rush, defeating Ne-gaunee, Sault Ste. Marie and Munising before being beaten by Newberry. Last weekend, however, they got back in the win column with a 50-36 victory over Escanaba.

Defeated 46-27 on their home court before Christmas, the Emeralds will be out gunning for revenge tonight.

Coach Eldon Keil will use Capt. Billy Rajala as one forward alternating Larry LaPlant and Dick Stade at the other, Phil Creten at center and Tich Swenson and Jim Schram at guards.

There will be a reserve game between the "B" teams of the two schools and Coach Don Pfothner's champions will be out to average a 26-25 defeat at Manistique before the holidays.

Rockets Win Again In Central League

The Rapid River Rockets concluded the regular schedule last night, defeating Trenary, 40 to 22, at Rapid River. The victory gave Rapid River an undefeated record in the Central league with 14 victories and a 19-1 record for the season. The only defeat was at the hands of the St. Joseph Trojans of Escanaba.

Sentinels Win Hockey Title

Beat Soo, 15-9, In Wild Game

MARQUETTE—In a game that saw defensive tactics reach a new league low, the Marquette Sentinels became champions of the Northern Lakes Hockey league by drubbing the Canadian Soo Red Wings, 15-9, before 787 persons in the Palestra last night.

Jim Eady and Rueben Parske, Sentinel forwards, racked up eight points apiece, Eady getting three goals and Parske four. Fran LePage and Owen O'Brien also pulled the hat trick for Marquette as did Sartor for the Red Wings.

Marquette will meet the winner of the Canadian Soo-Eagle River playoff series for the post-season title and the president's cup.

Son Charged With Murder

Father Was Buried In Cowshed

PONTIAC, Mich.—(P)—The official investigation of Oakland county's strange father's slaying and cowshed burial moved into routine channels today.

At the same time the family of Carson James, 27-year-old marine sergeant charged with murder, prepared to fight in his defense with all its limited resources.

Two officers from Oakland county were en route to Prescott, Ariz., to return James to Michigan.

Young James, arrested in Arizona while driving to a marine assignment in California, waived extradition. It may be a week before he is returned to Michigan.

Murder In 1947
The son is charged with murder in the gunshot slaying more than two years ago of his father, Stanley, 54.

The father's death, on Thanksgiving day of 1947, came to light only this week. This was a result, authorities said, of the violation of a family pact to keep it a secret.

Mrs. Ruth James, 54, widow of the slain man, promised son James all help possible.

"I have talked with all the children," she said, "and we will put together what we can to get Carson a good lawyer."

In the family are four other sons and two daughters.

Chief of Police Clarence Witt of Clawson, the James' home, and Deputy Sheriff Elmer McQuern of Oakland county headed meanwhile for Arizona to return the accused son.

At Cambridge, Mass., Carson's divorced wife commented on the case.

Her remarks, however, were treated with scorn by Mrs. James. "Nonsense," the mother said.

Told Of Intentions
Mrs. Cynthia Atwood Pike, 31, the Cambridge woman, said she had feared Carson while she was his wife. She said he had told her he intended to kill his father.

From accounts to police the elder James was cruel to his family.

In an interview with a reporter, Mrs. Pike said Carson had confided to her he was going to commit a "perfect crime."

She added: "James told me he was going to kill his father, but I didn't believe it. And yet I knew that he was honest, very honest. You could believe everything he said."

"So when he told me he was going to—well, that was one of the reasons why our marriage broke up."

Mrs. Pike said her then-husband had told her what he intended to do with his father as early as 1946.

"I thought he must be insane or unbalanced," she said.

"I said he ought to go and have a knockdown fight with his father; he would feel more like a man."

"We were listening to a radio program, a murder story," Mrs. Pike continued. "James said: 'If the body isn't found, they don't have any proof, do they? I believe you can commit a perfect crime.'"

"Believe me, I didn't like that. He sounded so unstable that I was afraid."

Mrs. Pike added: "Following our separation in 1947, Carson came back to see me. He showed me his pistol and told me: 'I took care of that matter.'"

"He didn't tell me about any actual slaying or about the concealment of a body."

Obituary
Services for Andrew Steve were held yesterday at the Anderson funeral home chapel with Rev. Karl J. Hammar conducting the rites. Burial was in Lakeview cemetery. Pallbearers were John Fransen, Roland and August Eckstrom, Stanley Balka, Emil Howard and Peter Kujala.
